A good idea

is to keep some Pearline in a sifter, ready to use for floor washing, dish washing etc., etc. You sprinl a little over the floor for instance and then just wash it over with a wet cloth. See how much more convenient to use than soap to say nothing of the easier work!

If you're buying and using Pearline simply for washing clothes and not for all kinds of washing, and cleaning you're creating yourself out of a great deal of comfort and economy.

Former Chef of Napoleon III and the Imperial family of Russia, says:

"I never think of preparing for myself frying fat, but I like to get Cottolene and use it in my diet, as it is a natural frying material except the more expensive and pricier oil, equal to Cottolene for frying purposes."

Cottolene

A pure vegetable oil combined with choice beef tallow, and carefully prepared and refined to be a very way preferable to lard or animal fat.

It is the best oil for frying, and is equal to Cottolene for frying purposes.

Achievements of 1897.

The Boston Sunday Globe gives an interesting review of the greatest achievements of 1897, seen by different writers of eminence.

Science is treated by Mr. Thomas Huxley who says that the discoveries of the past year have been on strictly technical lines. He mentions the discovery of an entirely new gas which is supposed to be a new element in the atmosphere as important.

Bishop Potter and Rev. Lyman Abbott discuss religious advancement, the former dealing with the Lambeth conference in London in June and the latter the Church Congress in London in March. Mr. Abbott says that altogether it has been a great year for the cause of church union which is steadily advancing.

In commerce and manufacturing Mr. Davis says that the greatest achievement was the transfer of the largest amount of iron and steel from Europe to the United States, thus conveying to the people of this nation the paramount power in the development of commerce which has been supremacy to Great Britain for more than a century.

A recent and adventure-Henry Chester M. Newell refers to the blinding of the consolidation scheme resulting in the New York City (The Queen's) battle but concludes after all that the most important event in the American people is the return of material prosperity and the beginning of a new era of national greatness under the administration of President McKinley.

In society Mrs. John Sherman concluded that the most important event in her life was the costume ball given at the Hotel Waldorf by Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Martin. She declares that it was the most discussed subject and prised event in the social whirl of a decade.

Industry Mr. S. V. Burr, editor of Iron Age, makes a long list of achievements, concentrating just as the greatest achievement.

Literature Mr. S. McClure stamps his list of the most important publication of the year. He thinks of all the publications for the past twelve months this is the one that would longest be remembered.

Art Mr. Charles H. Hart says in my opinion the greatest artistic achievement of the year is that, as it properly should belong to the domain of the mother of all art, architecture and its greatest significance and beauty are that it belongs not to the old world but to the new.

It is hardly necessary to say after the "but" I consider the completion and opening of the building in the capital of the country erected for the library of Congress as the crowning event of the year. It is not only a monument to American art, but it is a monument to the wisdom of our legislators of which they have just right to be proud, evidencing as it does their self denial to sacrificing their immediate taste and abstract knowledge of art, their master mind and leaving the work as it should always be left to one who knew how to do what came to his hand to do.

We Have Fared the Best

Some interesting contracts are presented by the Treasury report of statistics for the month of November and by the figures given in the Chamber of Commerce Journal, the official organ of the London Chamber of Commerce regarding the import and export trade of the United Kingdom and other European countries.

Exports of domestic merchandise from the United States during November amounted to $1,06,301, a gain of nearly $7,000,000 as compared with November last. The imports of merchandise during November aggregated $2,024,301 of which $1,020,000 was free of duty. The gain for the month in the imports of dutiable merchandise was over $1,000,000. For the last month the increase in the imports of merchandise was $1,000,000. The entire gain in the imports of merchandise was $1,000,000.

Exports of domestic merchandise from the United States during November amounted to $1,06,301, a gain of nearly $7,000,000 as compared with November last. The imports of merchandise during November aggregated $2,024,301 of which $1,020,000 was free of duty. The gain for the month in the imports of dutiable merchandise was over $1,000,000. For the last month the increase in the imports of merchandise was $1,000,000.

Turning to the Board of Trade returns for October we find that the imports of Great Britain as summarized for the first ten months of the year show a gross increase of $12,116,324 as compared with the same period of 1896, the largest single increase being in articles of food and drink amounting to $1,114,144. It exports the decrease for the ten months amounts to $6,050,229. The largest items of decrease are those of manufactured articles. In the export of yarns and textile fabrics there was a falling off of $4,300,718 in apparel and articles of personal use to $7,424,100, and to other articles wholly or in part manufactured $1,777,98 increases in some articles of export, mainly raw materials, offset the decreases above stated and make the net decrease of exports for the ten months ending with October $1,114,144.

During the eleven months ending with November the exports of domestic merchandise by the United States show an increase of $86,101,435 over the corresponding period in 1896, while for ten months ending with October $1,020,000 was suffered a loss of over $10,000,000. As between the United States and the United Kingdom there is a gross difference of $16,000,000 in favor of the United States.

Austria-Hungary for the nine months ending with September, has a total of exports of manufactures amounting to 447,260,064 dollars, against 251,986,637 the previous year, or a decrease of 1,926,603 dollars.

For the first nine months of 1897 Germany's exports have increased, the figures being 200,826,425 quintals of 100 kilos, while for the same period in 1896 the total was 187,050,495 quintals. Among the articles in which decreases are noted are cotton and cotton goods, glass and glassware, articles of clothing, furs, silk and silk goods, pottery ware and wool and woolen goods. German imports increased in value for the nine months by 28,000,000 quintals, and exceeded the similar period of 1896 by 37,747,966 quintals, while exports show an increase of 13,766,910 quintals compared with the nine months of 1896, and a rise of 30,728,452 quintals when contrasted with the same period of 1896.

For the ten months ending with October, France shows a great increase in imports of 76,184,000 francs and in exports of 184,039,000 francs, the percentage of increase being 2.42 and 6.9 respectively.

It will be seen that no country to the west has fared so well in trade, commerce and industry as the United States in this year of Protection, 1897.

A. T. BOUTELLE, of Providence.

L. Cabot called attention yesterday in a letter to the Journal.

In view of the desperate effort which is being made to convince several United States Senators that the so-called Hawaiian delegation now in Washington represents the unanimous feeling of the Hawaiian people, this statement is of the utmost significance. The present treaty of annexation, as is well known, has received the formal sanction of the Hawaiian Senate, in which, as in the Constitutional Convention that embodied in the Hawaiian Constitution a somewhat similar article, the native Hawaiian element was its own spokesman. But on the 27th of May, 1896, as Mr. Cabot pointed out, this resolution was adopted by both the Hawaiian Senate and the House of Representatives.

Whereas, it has heretofore been the announced policy, both of the Provisional Government and of the Republic of Hawaii, to advocate the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands to the United States.

Whereas, the Legislature of the Republic of Hawaii is now in regular session assembled, and will adjourn for a considerable period, and I am sure, with the intent that the representatives of the people should represent themselves on record as to the present state of feeling among themselves and the people of the Islands.

Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives, that the Legislature of the Republic of Hawaii continue its session in regular session in favor of the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands to the United States of America, and in advocating such a policy they feel assured that they will be doing no injury to their own constituents, but those of the voters of this republic.

Insomuch as the Hawaiian House

contains a majority of native Hawaiians in its membership, this declaration must be accepted as indicating the sentiment of the orderly, intelligent, and well disposed aboriginal element of the population. Certainly, as matched against the statements of the three or four Kanaka monarchists in Washington, whose leader is a Scotchman and whose expenses are said to be paid by a Portuguese resident of Honolulu, this resolution can reasonably be expected to stand as final and conclusive with the American Senators and Congressmen.

I had a running, ribbing sore on my left toe. So I went to a Dr. L. C. Clegg to have the burning and itching instantly and quickly stopped permanent.

LOCAL MATTERS.

A meeting of the Governor and Council will be held Wednesday, when the business of the year will be closed up, and as soon as possible thereafter the State treasurer will make his annual report.

The annual social of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. will be held Tuesday next. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock. Boys will be admitted on their membership tickets. An entertainment will follow the social.

A telegram from Machias announces the death of Miss Clark on Saturday. She was the youngest sister of Miss Evelyn E. Clark, who has many friends in this city and who will be tendered the deepest sympathy.

The medal which was recently presented to West Peary, U. S. N., the Arctic explorer, who will lecture in Bangor next month, by the Exchange Geographical Society, and which was subsequently lost, has been found in a London theatre.

City Engineer Vickery has received from Boston a one hundred feet steel tape measure which was sent to Washington, D. C. and standardised. It is the most accurate measure of the kind obtainable and will be a valuable piece of engineering apparatus.

All trains of the Maine Central were loaded with express packages and bundles last week and the biggest business ever done at the always busy Christmas season is reported. Notwithstanding all of this rush the trains were running about on the regular scheduled time.

Mr. Pullen's Christmas dance on Saturday was attended by a large number of young people, who greatly enjoyed the well chosen dances, for which Mr. Ringwall furnished excellent music. Mr. Pullen will give another dancing matinee on New Year's day, when there will doubtless be a similar attendance.

After Margaret Mather's presentation of "Cymbeline" this evening there will be a quiet period at the Opera House for a time. Manager Owen has made arrangements for the appearance in Bangor of the famous Parisian danseuse and singer, Anna Held, who is now completing her fourth engagement.

Mr. Hale's wife, wife of Cornelius Hale, and Dennis Rooney, the latter known

Best and shooed hands with him. Sawyer then left them and went to Kenney's boarding house. Investigation by the police shows that Hale invited Best to go with him to supper and that Hale then obtained a pint of liquor. Hale and Best then went to Hale's residence which is in the upper part of Marvin Hill's house on lower E-Street.

Haley says that they had had two drinks at Mr. Ringwall's place, and that besides the pint of liquor which he bought Best had half a pint which he produced at the house.

Mrs. Hale, wife of Cornelius Hale, says that she requested Best to leave the house and that he started to do so.

As he passed through the door at the head of a flight of stairs leading to the front door she closed the door after him.

A moment afterwards she heard him fall down stairs. Hale in the meantime had gone to sleep in another room, she says.

Mrs. Hale who lives below says that she heard the man take two or three steps down the stairs and then fall down the flight.

She said she heard no previous disturbance.

Henry Hale, her son, went to the scene of the disturbance and found Best lying on the floor.

He called the police and the police and the patrol wagon sent for

Haley said that he would take care of Best in his room.

Mrs. Hale says that she covered Best with a blanket, but about 2 o'clock Sunday morning needling it for one of the beds, went to get it, when she saw that Best's face was white and that his mouth was wide open and set. She at once thought that Best was dead and aroused

Haley, who had been asleep, and he went after a physician.

Dr. Butler, the city physician, was summoned and going to Hale's house

he found Best dead. His skull, on the back of the head, was fractured and the flesh about the left eye was discolored to a state of blackness.

Dr. Butler came down town and meeting Patrolman O'Donoghue told him of the case.

Patrolman O'Donoghue whistled for Capt. F. L. S. Palmer
